The Living Room

For many of us, the living room is the centre of our home; a space where friends and family relax and enjoy the view to the outside. Often that view comes with an abundance of natural light. Window coverings can help block harmful UV rays that damage furnishings, control heat and manage glare – controlling or providing room-darkening solutions. Hunter Douglas window coverings help you harness the beauty of natural light, making the living room a warm and welcoming space that reflects your personal style.

The colours of Duette® Honeycomb Shades produced the rustic feel and individuality that I was aiming for. Not only was this combination beautiful, its versatility was amazing – matching multiple uses and having no cords to get in the way. Having a longstanding career in design, I'm really impressed by how Hunter Douglas has married function and design.

Hunter Douglas window coverings perfectly complement the luxurious living room design. The light control from Duette® Honeycomb Shades was excellent, really different from your typical window treatment.

The Kitchen & Dining Room

The dining room serves a key function in a home for mealtimes with family and friends. In the dining room, window treatments can provide privacy, soft illumination and a touch of elegance for entertainment.

In the kitchen, culinary creativity comes alive but it can get pretty hot and humid, which is why it can be tricky to furnish. As with all rooms, light control is essential but for the kitchen, so is ventilation.

Window treatments that allow cooling breezes to enter while providing varying degrees of privacy are key for this type of space. Kitchen shades and blinds also need to stand up well to heat and humidity, but be easy to clean and maintain.

The Bathroom

Many identify the bathroom as a sanctuary for relaxation and rejuvenation or to kick-start their morning. As bathroom windows are typically the smallest windows in a home, select treatments that let in the largest amount of light. Consider adding window fashions with a top-down/bottom-up installation for complete privacy without having to give up natural light and the view. Also, as humidity is an issue in this space, go for easy-to-clean, microbial-resistant window coverings.

DESIGNING WINDOWS AWARDS

Winning Designs

Driven by our commitment to reward innovation in modern window covering designs, we launched the Hunter Douglas DESIGNING WINDOWS AWARDS.

Interior designers and architects from across Asia with diverse backgrounds and experience submitted inspiring designs using innovative Hunter Douglas products.

In the following pages you can enjoy a selection of the projects in a wide range of design aesthetics and applications.

“From the very beginning, we maintained a simple concept: openness.”

HERDADI WAHYUDI
Bobos Design
INDONESIA

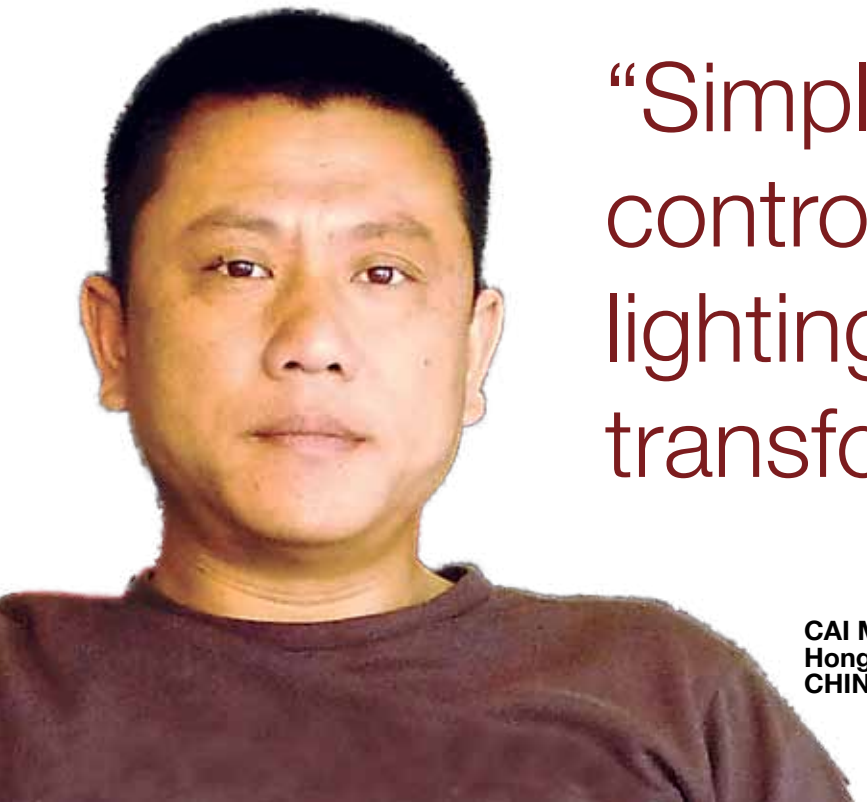

Harness the beauty of natural light for your living room with Silhouette® Window Shadings

One of Hunter Douglas' strengths is reaching the end-consumers and colleagues through interior designers. Our design process and execution was excellently rolled out, thanks to the support of the premium quality and amazing concept of Hunter Douglas products.

From the very beginning, we maintained the simple concept of 'openness', aiming to create an optimum outdoor view in the interior. In the design we created openings with minimum framing through wide, fixed glass windows and sufficient open window panels to deliver a cross-ventilation air system. In the other parts, we used wide sliding glass-door panels to create an "experience the outdoors" concept.

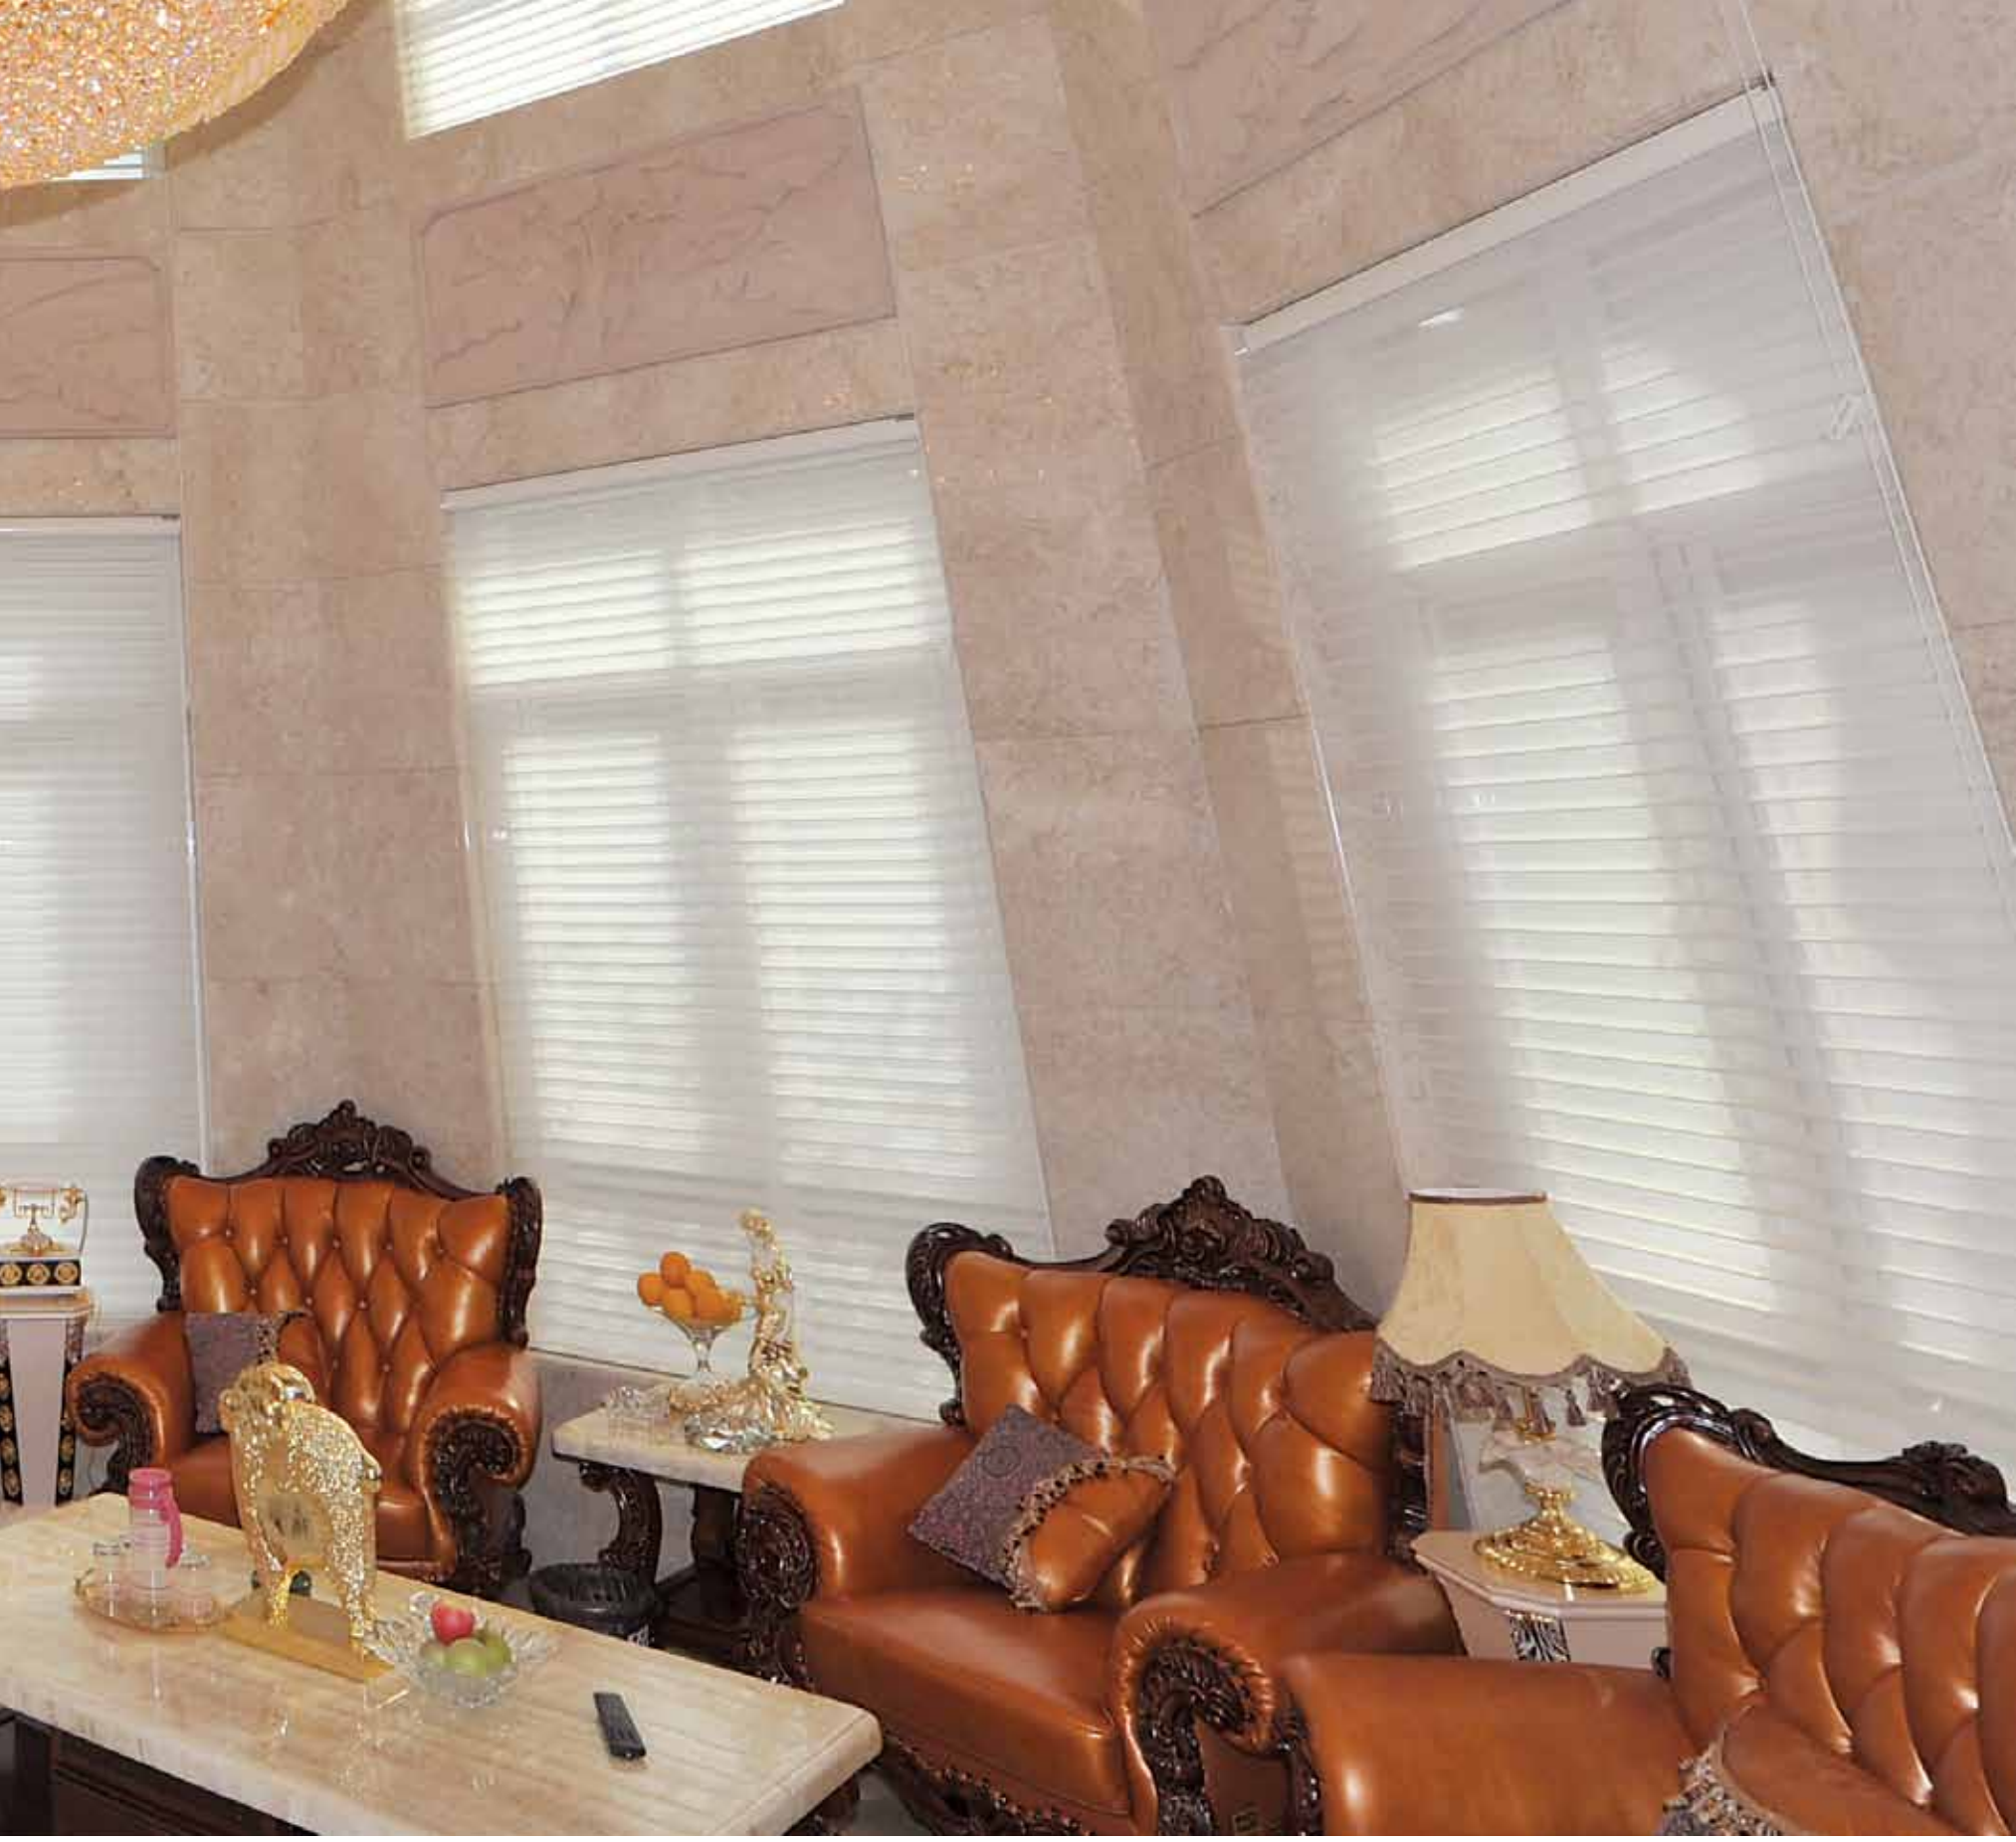

The Silhouette® range delivered flexibility in setting the degree of visual, thermal and privacy elements and the motorised controls made it easy to maintain and operate the shades.

This Designing Windows Awards was a prestigious opportunity for us to measure our capabilities against other professionals in the industry. This entire experience, getting to meet people from diverse backgrounds, cultures and styles, was an inspiring, eye-opening experience.

“Simply because of the controlled and filtered lighting, the room has transformed in nature”

Silhouette® Window Shadings elegantly combine privacy and lighting, creating a fantastic atmosphere to entertain guests in

I believe that design is very subjective in nature. Everyone's eye for design is different in the sense that we all have our own personalities and preferences. Every customer wants something distinctive. Regardless, we are all trying to achieve a balance of elegance, beauty and practicality in any given 'canvas'.

In my experience, Hunter Douglas does this very well. Take for example the Silhouette® Window Shadings that I used in this programme. They ensure privacy and at the same time allow natural light to fill the room. Simply because of the controlled and filtered lighting, the room has transformed in nature, providing a warm, relaxing ambience – perfect for leisure or entertainment.

Create a warm, relaxing glow with Silhouette® Window Shadings

Light gives life in space. It's like the completion of a great painting – accentuating the splendor with brush-strokes to bring out the full beauty of a work of art.

In interior designing, light goes hand-in-hand with space. When I design, I always try to ensure that the furnishings as well as the window coverings are arranged in such a way that regardless of what time of day it is, space and light complement each other to create a sort of symphony.

The idea behind my design is based on the proper arrangement of spaces and texture rendering. Hunter Douglas Window Fashions products are able to manipulate the flow of light from both indoors and outdoors, making the control of light in a given space clear and easy.

“The idea behind my design is based on the proper arrangement of spaces and texture rendering.”

Interior elements are a common language in the world as you can clearly see through the wide variety of the works that this programme has amassed. I approached this project not with the focus of outdoing everyone else, but with the objective of fully harnessing my abilities to create the perfect space.

I focused on the combination and balance of vertical and horizontal lines in my design. It worked out great, mostly because the Silhouette® Window Shadings I used synchronised very nicely with the surrounding indirect light. I'm particularly proud of the living room. I combined a "Chinoiserie" style with a Bordeaux wine colour, which proved to be very successful. Overall, my aim was for a design that matches the trend of Japanese lifestyle spaces and modern construction design, which I think I pulled off quite nicely.

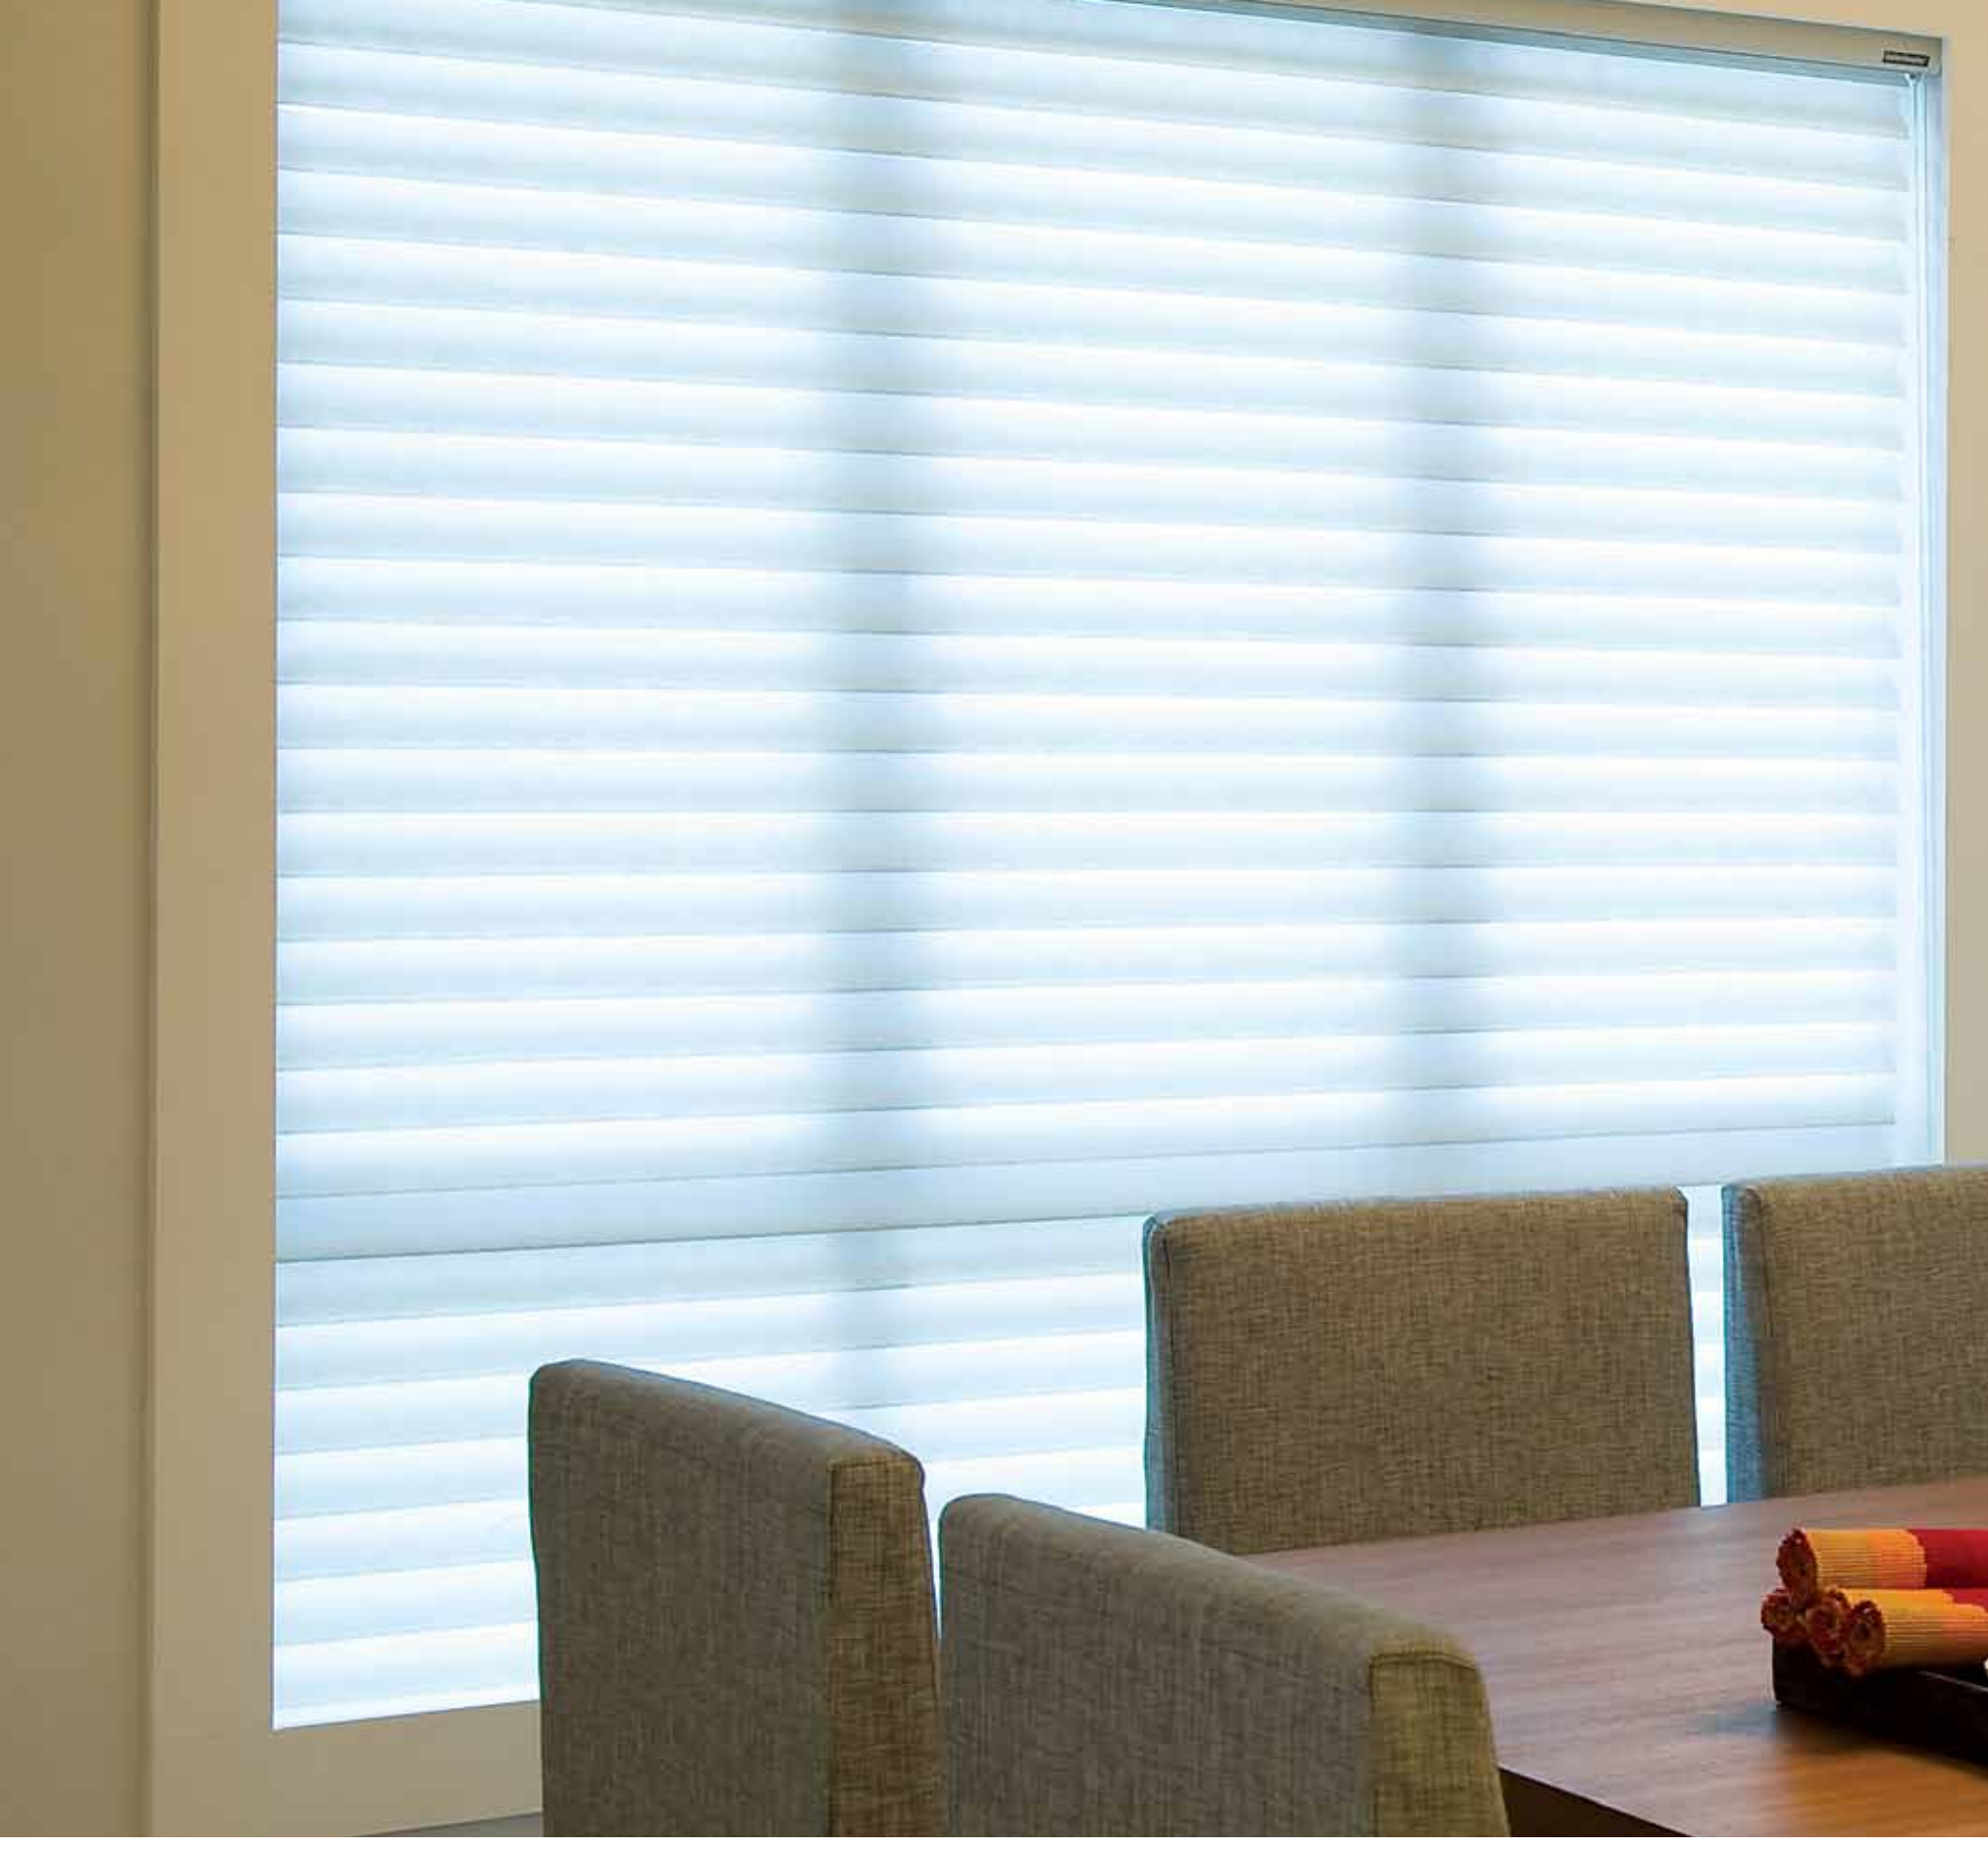

Hunter Douglas products are very popular in all types of spaces: condominiums, nursery homes, personal residences, law firms and office projects just to name a few. It's a trusted brand that combines function and design very well. This initiative is wonderful but I hope the next time it will not be confined to just Asia, but worldwide rather. I'll definitely be a part of it.

Featuring convenient flexibility when you need it. Silhouette® Window Shadings can transform the atmosphere of a dining area

My colleague and I were at the launch of the competition, and we were intrigued by the way it was going to be carried out. Right there and then, we made the decision to enter the competition. I drew my inspiration from the ‘Master of Modern Architecture’, I M Pei.

I was extremely impressed by the way he designed the windows at the Suzhou Museum in China where he used windows to frame scenery outside the room; objects like decorative plants and bamboo became attractive ‘pictures’ for the interior.

In a similar way, we designed the windows as picture frames for outdoor objects to be presented as pieces of art from within the room. We decided on Silhouette® Window Shadings because of its flexibility of view to the exterior, maintaining the outlook even when fully closed.

I’ve always heard that Hunter Douglas products were known for their quality and durability, but they astounded me throughout this experience with their very professional and reliable approach. I was also impressed with the technology behind the products. On top of that, the overall company philosophy of Hunter Douglas is remarkable. If this initiative were to be repeated in the future, you will definitely see my face again.

“The area was bathed in natural light so we wanted to harness as much of that light as possible”

I believe in working towards an architecture of detail with attention to materials, structure, quality of light and walls for example.

When I saw the site, I was entranced. The surrounding environment was simply wonderful. The area was bathed in natural light so we wanted to harness as much of that light as possible as it would give a sensual feel to the forms of the furniture. With Hunter Douglas Window Fashions, we managed to complement the whiteness of the interior, really bringing forward the glow that makes a room very pleasing to the eye.
